Delhi to welcome India's first Time Out Market

MD and CEO of Bharti Real Estate, stated: "Time Out Market's opening in India at 5 Worldmark in Aerocity, New Delhi, adds to Worldmark's reputation as the country's most comprehensive business and lifestyle destination. Time Out Market's internationally known concept would be beneficial for the city's international visitors, business people, and urban community. This association shows that we are committed to our long-term aim of making Worldmark India's best business district to work, meet, eat, and do business.

The market will be located in the new phase of the Worldmark development, which spans approximately 17 million square feet and is positioned as a global business district. The development includes destination retail, premium hotels, modern office spaces, and curated hospitality experiences. Situated adjacent to Indira Gandhi International Airport, Worldmark Aerocity serves as a key gateway ecosystem, attracting international visitors, business travellers, and urban professionals. The lease transaction for Time Out Market Delhi was facilitated by India Sotheby's International Realty.

INGREDIENTS

- 1/4 cup rice (rinsed)
- 1 1/2 cups milk of your choice
- 1/2 cup grated veges
Kumara/Pumpkin/
Butternut

INSTRUCTIONS

Place the following ingredients into a rice cooker and set to cook.

Remove from the rice cooker as soon as it is cooked so it does not continue to dry out.

These can be also be quickly made into little rice balls

STICKY VEGE RICE

2 portions

15 minutes

This sticky rice is full of veges and protein. It's almost a complete meal and will hopefully satisfy a fussy eater.

I cooked this in a rice cooker and it worked great.

This makes an excellent sidedish, or even just a quick lunch because it does have a nice balance of veggies/protein/carbs.

Because this rice is sticky it is perfect for little fingers to feed themselves.

NOTES

I use normal cows milk but coconut milk (not cream) would be wonderful as well. I just used a normal grater for my vegetables, but if you want to hide the fact that it's full of veggies try using the fine side of the grater or even a Parmesan grater.

Free Dental Check-Up Camp

Atharva Colloge of Hotel Management and Catering Technology successfully organized a Free Dental Check-Up Camp to promote awareness about oral hygiene and overall health among students and staff members. The initiative was conducted under the guidance of Shri Sunil Rane Sir with the objective of encouraging preventive dental care and ensuring healthy smiles across the campus. The camp witnessed active participation, reflecting the importance given to health and well-being at the institution.

Qualified dental professionals, including Dr. Rachna and Dr. Poonam, carried out routine dental examinations and provided valuable guidance on maintaining proper oral hygiene. They carefully examined the students and staff members, identified common dental issues, and suggested appropriate treatments and preventive care measures. The doctors also explained the correct brushing techniques, the importance of flossing, and the role of a balanced diet in maintaining strong and healthy teeth. The camp not only offered free consultations but also created awareness about early detection of dental problems and the need for regular follow-ups.
